The CBSE launched a career counseling webinar series aimed at guiding students in shaping their future careers. The keynote address by Mr. Himanshu Gupta, Secretary, CBSE, stressed the importance of profile building, especially for students aspiring to top institutions in India and abroad. He recommended that students begin documenting their academic, co-curricular, and extracurricular achievements as early as Class 10 or 11.

Panelists Mr. Jitin Chawla and Ms. Anshika Kaur emphasised the significance of holistic development, encouraging students to balance academics with extracurricular activities like entrepreneurship, social projects, and sports. Mr. Chawla highlighted that profile building goes beyond academics, providing real-life examples of students excelling in various fields, such as starting ventures or interning with MPs.

The session outlined strategies for building strong profiles, including engaging in internships, research projects, and tech innovations. It also emphasized quality over quantity in achievements, with students encouraged to pursue meaningful social projects and explore summer/winter programs. Key advice included starting early, focusing on passion, and building depth in select areas. Students were also advised to create portfolios and utilize digital tools like Notion, LinkedIn, and AI apps for research and organisation, further strengthening their profiles for future opportunities.
